Rittal signs New Distribution Partnership with Ramelec

Rittal Australia is pleased to announce a new national distribution partnership with Ramelec, a specialist electrical industrial equipment distributor of market-leading, globally recognised brands.

Since its foundation in 1991, Ramelec has evolved into a strong and dynamic industrial distributor with a nation-wide network of offices and highly skilled staff focused on providing its customers added value and support through its extensive industry and technical knowledge coupled with responsive service.

Rittal ANZ Managing Director Michael Mallia said that “this partnership will broaden our distribution network, particularly bringing additional market coverage in Western Australia and Queensland. Our range of industrial enclosures, climate control units and power distribution systems perfectly complements Ramelec’s range of motor control, power distribution & quality, instrumentation and connectivity products”.

Mallia added “the synergies between Rittal and Ramelec’s other major international brands have been proven in industrial applications around the globe and I’m confident that Ramelec’s customers will immediately appreciate the value that our products bring”.

Wayne Keoghan, Managing Director of the Ramelec Group added, “Rittal is a tremendous brand delivering an extensive product portfolio which has a clear strategic fit within our business whilst complimenting the other global market leading brands we represent. More than this, the synergies between the collective brands and products ensures our customers have a trusted supplier in Ramelec who can service their end-to-end electrical system needs”.
